Acknowledgement of Country

In recognition of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples' deep spiritual connection to Country, and in continuing the university's commitment to reconciliation, it is customary to acknowledge Country as we pass through it. We acknowledge and pay our respects to the First Peoples, the Traditional Custodians of the lands and waterways where Australian Catholic University campuses are located, and we thank them for their continued custodianship.

What sets ACU apart

Think you know ACU?
You're just getting started.
It's education, but not as you know it.

Meaningful education, not mass production

At ACU, it's education, but with a bigger purpose. We're a university committed to standing up for people in need and causes that matter. If you've got the desire to make an impact, we'll give you the skills to change the world. You might get to coach kids' soccer in East Timor, help refugees in court, assist disadvantaged children with their homework, nurse patients in Vanuatu or teach in remote Indigenous communities – the opportunities are endless.

There's more than one way into ACU

There's no right or wrong way to get into university. We have a range of pathways that provide alternative options if you didn't get the score you need, haven't completed the prerequisites, or don't meet some other requirement. We'll also recognise your prior learning, give you credit where relevant, and consider work and life experience towards your selection rank. Learn more on page 82.

The world is your campus

We're young, but we are making our mark. We're ranked in the top 40 of young universities worldwide* and in the top 10 Catholic universities – alongside Georgetown University and Boston College in the US. We've got more than 200 partners on six continents, community engagement opportunities around the globe, and a campus in Rome, Italy.

Timetables, units and course maps

What will my timetable look like? How many units will I study? What are classes like at uni? Studying an undergraduate degree – eg a bachelor’s degree – is very different to studying at high school. You won’t be in class from 9am – 3pm five days a week, and the structure of courses and classes is also different.

Here is a quick rundown of a few key topics to help you understand what’s involved when you study at university.

TIMETABLES

Timetables depend on the course you choose and if you decide to study full-time, part-time or in an accelerated mode. As a full-time student, you may be able to squeeze all your subjects into three days a week – but you also need to set aside time to read, research, review and complete assignments and exams.

Full-time uni schedules are typically designed so you have the flexibility to work part-time – so you can earn money, volunteer or pursue other passions while you study.

CLASSES

Classes are in different formats and may be held face-to-face, online or through a mix of the two. You’ll usually have lectures (typically a large group of students with an academic presenting), tutorials (smaller group discussions with an academic) and workshops/practicums/placements (interactive experiences where you refine your skills). Practicums/placements often occur in real-world settings – for example a business student may complete an internship at a company, a nursing student a placement at a hospital, and an education student a placement at a school.

UNITS AND ASSESSMENT

Units are the subjects within your course. Each unit has a specified number of credit points that count towards your degree. Degrees will have core units that you must complete as part of the course, and some will have electives which are units you can select that are not a mandatory inclusion.

Each unit will also have its own assignments and exams, and each of these assessments will have a different percentage weighting towards your final result. For example, in one unit you may have a written assignment worth 40% of your final result, a multiple-choice exam worth 20% of your final result, and a group presentation worth 40% of your final result.

Assessments will vary for each unit you are studying and can include things like written reports, written essays, group presentations, individual oral presentations, in-class practical examinations/demonstrations, multiple-choice exams, quizzes, etc.

Study in Rome

Did you know we have an ACU campus located in Rome, Italy? It's an incredible and unique opportunity to live and learn in one of the most fascinating cities in the world.

CAMPUS DI ROMA

No matter what course you're studying with us, you'll have the opportunity to stay at our campus in Rome – from a couple of weeks to a semester. And life at our Rome Campus is about so much more than just study. You'll immerse yourself in Roman life, bond with other students from around Australia and the world, explore historic sites, improve your Italian and, of course, learn new things. You'll also have the chance to go beyond the tourist sights and engage with locals in a meaningful way, and may even have the opportunity to apply for an internship in Rome.

ACCOMMODATION

Our Rome Campus has modern, newly-renovated residential accommodation which is located on site and available for students. You can watch the sun set over the city from one of the many terraces offering beautiful views while making plans with your new friends to explore the Vatican or one of the many nearby popular tourist sites.

See the world through the eyes of others

At ACU, we know that you are more than your degree. That's why we encourage you to learn broadly about our world, to listen to others, and to think about how you can lead with compassion and confidence, challenging stereotypes and making an impact. That's at the heart of our Core Curriculum. It's a key part of the ACU experience – giving you the tools to change the world for the better.

The Core at ACU is made up of three units:

- two coursework units of your choice, drawn from a selection of units designed to broaden your horizons and get you thinking and talking about what matters
- one community engagement unit focused on an area of service relevant to your course of study.

The Core's coursework units will open you to a range of perspectives and discipline areas that speak to the rich and diverse legacy of the Catholic intellectual tradition. Each unit strives to stretch your understanding of the past, so that you can better comprehend and appreciate the present, and in this way help to imagine and plan for a better future.

You'll be in classes sharing ideas with students from other disciplines, ensuring different viewpoints and lively debate. Core units can be taken face-to-face, online or intensively. There's even the chance to complete a unit overseas, such as at ACU's Rome Campus.

Fees and scholarships

Scholarships

We believe that where you come from doesn't have to define where you're going. And while there are financial commitments that come with university study, this shouldn't stop you from pursuing your goals. That's why we offer more than 600 scholarships to support you along the way.

“Receiving a Ramsay Scholarship to study at ACU lifted so much worry and stress. Relocating from a small rural town to the city was an extremely big change for me, and there are so many costs that I would have struggled to afford. Thanks to the scholarship, I can give more attention to my studies and just enjoy my university experience, knowing that I don’t have to worry about expenses”

TYPES OF SCHOLARSHIPS

Our scholarships range in value from $1,000 to $160,000, and are available to eligible students studying in every discipline across all of our campuses.

Our scholarships fall into two categories:

- Merit scholarships – awarded to students who have excelled in some area.

We also offer scholarships which can help with costs associated with student accommodation.

CREATING OPPORTUNITY FUND (COF) SCHOLARSHIPS

To create even more opportunities for our students, we’ve developed our COF scholarships. These scholarships aim to break down barriers to higher education by helping students experiencing financial hardship or other disadvantages reach their potential. Valued at $4,000 each, they are designed to support you to achieve your goals, no matter what circumstances you may be facing.

APPLYING

It always pays to apply. You never know when you may be successful and scholarships can be a huge help. You’re welcome to apply for as many scholarships as you’re eligible for. Fees

Most Australian students will be studying in a Commonwealth supported place (CSP), where the Australian Government makes a contribution to the cost of your study, and you pay the ‘student contribution’. Depending on the course, a CSP undergraduate student at ACU in 2023 pays between $4,120 and $15,136 per year of study. These fees may change for 2024.

Most Australian students pay their student contribution through the HECS-HELP scheme. This means the government lends you the money, and you start repaying the loan once your income gets above a certain amount. Alternatively, you can pay your student contribution upfront by the due date.

There are also a range of other loan schemes and government financial assistance available. For more information, visit studyassist.gov.au

OTHER COSTS

As a student, you will also need to consider a range of expenses such as the student services and amenities fees, living costs, textbooks, computer equipment and uniforms (if applicable to your course).
